Preventing Heat Illness

There are things we can do to help get us through the day without being overcome by the heat. Eating a well-balanced diet, getting plenty of rest and staying properly hydrated is key.

Replacing body fluids lost during sweating is the single most important way to control heat stress and keep workers comfortable, productive, alert and safe. Hydration experts from NIOSH, ACGIH and OSHA recommend drinking every 15 to 20 minutes -- not just during rest breaks -- to stay sufficiently hydrated and maintain a safe core body temperature. This puts less strain on the cardiovascular system and can lead to fewer heat-related illnesses and injuries.

When workers are properly hydrated, they are healthier, safer and more productive, no matter what the weather or working conditions.
